Chamber Workshop Gives Local Businesses a Competitive Edge

Greenville, SC (April 2006) - Debbie Nelson, of Debbie Nelson & Associates, along with Brad Majors, Director of Marketing for Greenville Technical College, will present a marketing seminar at the Greater Greenville Chamber of Commerce on Wednesday, April 20 at noon. Titled, "Filling the Pipeline," the seminar will teach Chamber members strategies for building strong relationships with clients. The seminar is free of charge, but attendees must RSVP to the Chamber at 239-3708 and are encouraged to bring a brown bag lunch.

Both speakers have a wealth of public relations and marketing experience. In 1997, Debbie Nelson established her full service public relations and marketing agency, Debbie Nelson and Associates, specializing in developing campaigns for banking and financial institutions, homebuilders and developers, medical group practices, government agencies, and small business start up. This year, Debbie Nelson & Associates acquired Socoh Marketing, which was founded by Brad Majors. Nelson and Majors' shared marketing philosophies, made the acquisition a natural fit when Majors accepted his position with Greenville Tech.
